

The Springfield Historical Society
presents
“New England Colonial Meetinghouses and Their Impact on American Society”
A NH Humanities Council Program

On Thursday evening, July 10th, at 7:15 p.m., Mr Paul Wainwright will be our guest speaker in an outstanding program on New England Colonial Meetinghouses. Artistic photography and a love of history have been longstanding interests of Mr Wainwright, but he was captured by physics in high school and eventually wound up getting his PhD in the field from Yale. He worked for many years for Bell Labs, with photography being a continued avocation. Since 2001, he has pursued his love of photography full time and is especially drawn to photographing historic structures in very personal and introspective ways. Please join us for what promises to be an informative and inspiring program presented through the art of photography. Our town meetinghouse is handicapped accessible and admission is free and open to the public. Refreshments will be served as people gather. Call Donna Denniston (603)496-5462 for further information.
